I'm Struggling: Being Jewish in America Today

Thursday, August 1 | In-Person

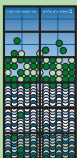

6-6:30 PM | Dinner

6:30-8 PM | Program

It is a difficult time to be Jewish in America right now. We have heard stories from you about difficulties at work, with friends and family, and even within our own community. We know many of us have been struggling over the past months. It may be isolation, antisemitism, feeling unwelcome or unwanted, or any other range of feelings.

On August 1, we will come together to process and create space for all of us to share and check in with one another. The goal of the evening is to recognize what we have experienced as individuals and as a community. Our goal is to provide a supportive and empathetic environment where everyone feels heard and understood.

ADL College Antisemitism Summer Training

Many of us have heard gut-wrenching stories from Jewish college students or watched recent news about the experiences of antisemitism on college campuses, starting before and worsening since October 7 last year. ADL is responding to the need of our community by helping Jewish students process what they have experienced and equip them to return to campus in the fall.

This summer, ADL Midwest is hosting training sessions for college students that will address antisemitism on campuses. Each session will consist of identifying, discussing, and processing antisemitism. Students will learn to better understand what they are hearing and witnessing. In response, they will be empowered to create meaningful dialogue and utilize ADL and university resources to respond to antisemitism on their campus.

The dates/times/locations of the trainings are as follows:

- Sunday, August 4 | 3-4:30pm | Highland Park

For security purposes, those attending an in-person session must bring a photo ID with them to the training. Walk-ins or those who do not bring their photo ID will not be allowed to attend.
